ABOUT EXHIBIT

Exhibit Statement from SMiLE

Love you to the moon and back again is a phrase from my childhood that has stuck with me throughout life and is a colloquial term expressing how I feel about the city of Boulder. Having a sense of community is essential and yet it's a bit of a brass ring to reach for in our day and age. Whether it is a midsummer nights Band On the Bricks on the Pearl Street Mall; a snowy moonlight hike to the Red Rocks above Settlers Park; a rainy spring morning at the Farmers Market by the bandshell or hearing the whisper of a concert at Folsom Field reverberate through the streets of downtown, these are experiences we all share together and that unite us as themes in our conversation and our passions. And I strive to make SMiLE one of those themes that unite us. My art has taken me through a diverse array of experiences that I did not anticipate but have been thrilled at nonetheless... yet always there at the heart of why I do this is the city that I love. To the moon.

PRESS RELEASE

SMiLE's To The Moon Headlines September's Street Art Focus

Boulder, CO – August 2025 – This September, the NoBo Art District puts the spotlight on street art with a season-defining lineup, led by the highly anticipated return of SMiLE at the Bus Stop Gallery. The forthcoming exhibition, To The Moon, is more than a showcase of new work—it is a love letter from a now globally recognized artist back to his hometown of Boulder and the community that has supported him for years.

SMiLE's last Boulder exhibition was nothing short of a phenomenon, selling out in hours and prompting the artist to create an additional body of work that also sold out at closing. With To The Moon, audiences can expect that same magnetic pull, infused with the gratitude and spirit of an artist reflecting his international rise back onto the city that shaped him.

The excitement begins with a members-only preview on Thursday, September 4 (check-in and cocktail hour 5–6 PM; exhibition opens 6 PM). The public opening follows on First Friday, September 5, welcoming the community into one of the year's most anticipated art events. Details and RSVP updates are available here → Bus Stop Gallery. The Gallery will be closed until the "member preview", Thursday evening.

Building on SMiLE's momentum, the district is also proud to present two complementary exhibitions that broaden the conversation about the role of street art today.

CLS — an established street artist and global citizen — brings his signature sculptural street art to Boulder, crafted from reclaimed wood and inspired by Bauhaus principles. His layered, geometric reliefs transform overlooked spaces into living works that belong to the people and the environment. This exhibit underscores CLS's vision: multiple fragments uniting into a harmonious whole.

Justin Ferland, in his exhibit Existencilism, introduces a new voice to the movement. His spray-painted, hand-cut stencils confront the overwhelming noise of modern life while reclaiming presence and dignity for marginalized voices. True to stencil art's protest roots, Ferland's work is designed to travel, replicate, and multiply—reminding us that powerful ideas are meant to be shared.

Finally, as part of the month-long street art celebration, Street Wise Arts will curate a pop-up shop in the Bus Stop Artisan Gift Shop, leading into their annual Mural Festival later in September. (More info: Street Wise Arts).

Together, To The Moon by SMiLE, alongside CLS, Justin Ferland, and Street Wise Arts, showcases the dynamism and accessibility of street art—from gallery walls to city streets. This September, Boulder's NoBo Art District is not just presenting exhibitions; it is affirming that street art belongs everywhere: in our neighborhoods, our galleries, and our shared imagination.
